Jan 26: Breakthrough Ideas: How to Become a More Strategic Thinker

Intended for leaders who currently work with strategy, the focus of this session is on the learning aspect of strategic thinking: what it is and how to strengthen your own strategic thinking and energize the strategic capability of your organization. Being strategically competitive in today's chaotic and complex global environment requires a different way of looking at how we approach strategic thinking. Leaders who are tasked with strategic responsibility must be attentive, agile, adaptive and innovative thinkers. Four key issues are addressed in this session: Why do organizations need strategic thinkers? What is strategic thinking? Who is a strategic thinker? How can strategic thinking be developed?

Dr. Julia Sloan, author of the definitive book Learning to Think Strategically, is widely recognized for her pioneering work in the application of complex cognitive theory to everyday global strategic thinking practice. Her work draws upon more than two decades of her own expatriate corporate experience working on strategy to align the business agenda with prevailing economic, cultural and social issues.

Feb 21: Breakthrough Planning Methods for Achieving Key Goals

Fortune Magazine estimates that 70% of all strategies fail. Failure often occurs because of ineffective planning methods for turning strategies into executable projects. This session offers a breakthrough planning approach for clearly aligning projects with strategic intent to boost your odds of project success. You will learn a common language and a step-by-step process for designing successful projects, programs, and change initiatives.

Mr. Terry Schmidt, author of Strategic Project Management Made Simple and Turn Strategy Into Action, is an internationally known management consultant who helps organizations become more strategic, productive, and profitable. He holds a Harvard MBA and has over thirty years of experience as an executive, educator, and strategy coach in 34 countries.

Mar 21: How Innovative Thinking Leads to Extraordinary Outcomes

Successful organizations operate on the edge of chaos and embrace risk, error, and ambiguity, while practicing strategies that reduce the need for doing, undoing, and redoing. You will learn key strategies and practical tools to give you the adaptive capacity to work creatively with change and uncertainty. We will discuss strategies for tapping the human potential for creative thinking, from the inception of ideas to their transformation into practical business strategies and innovations. Learn how effective leaders infuse all levels of the organization with the creative capacity to achieve extraordinary outcomes.

Apr 05: Transforming Difficult Conversations and Discovering Common Ground: Appreciative Intelligence

Appreciative Intelligence is the ability to see the generative potential in any situation and to actualize it. It is a leadership skill set that will enable you to step into conflict mindfully, and to transform difficult conversations into purposeful discussions. As a leader, by improving your Appreciative Intelligence, you will expand your abilities to reframe conflicting situations and move affected parties to a common ground. While challenging projects and difficult conversations will always be there, your approach to dealing with them will be more mindful, transforming conflict into opportunities to create better understanding, to enhance relationships, and to gain mutual respect, and create shared goals and positive outcomes.

Tojo Thatchenkery (Ph.D. Weatherhead School of Management, Case Western Reserve University) is an internationally known speaker, consultant, and educator. He is professor and director of the Organization Development and Knowledge Management program at George Mason University, Arlington, Virginia. He is the author of over a dozen books and hundreds of articles, including Appreciative Intelligence: Seeing the Mighty Oak in the Acorn, which was a Harvard Business Review recommended book, and Making the Invisible Visible, which introduced the concept of quiet leadership as a key driver for innovation in organizations.

Jul 06: Taking Charge: Developing Your Self-Management Techniques

Many managers feel the need for more control in their lives. They talk about things they want to do, the importance of personal growth and professional development, the importance of balancing work and family, but they don't have a system for achieving these goals. This workshop introduces a unique self-management program that helps managers achieve greater success than ever before. Managers learn how to overcome limiting attitudes, release their potential, and develop success-generating habits.

Aug 23: Relationship Management: Ten Skills Leaders Need to Get the Best From Others

What does it take to get the best performance out of people today? Personal Relationships! No longer can you just tell people what to do. Instead, you must informally seek and build commitment among your team members to do their best. In this session you'll discover new, research-based, techniques, which will help you do that. We'll learn how successful leaders shape their work environments to achieve optimal performance, get others to feel proud of their work, show they value others' contributions in surprising ways, offer feedback that really helps, cope with the natural frictions that arise when people work together, and create a meaningful workplace where people, and the organization, can prosper.

Nov 15: Influence and Action: The Core of Leadership

As a leader, you will be expected to influence others, including your team, your superiors, and managers in different departments, as you build support for change and implement new programs. This seminar will examine the qualities and skills of leaders who get "extraordinary" things done under tight time and resource constraints. We will discuss how to get people to embrace change, how to build trust and credibility, how to manage the politics of relationships, and how to inspire those around you to follow your lead.

Dr. Robert J. Bies is Professor of Management and Founder of the Executive Master's in Leadership Program at the McDonough School of Business at Georgetown University. In addition, he is co-author of the book, Getting Even: The Truth About Workplace Revenge - And How to Stop It.

Dec 07: The SUMO Principles of Leadership

In this highly interactive and practical workshop, Mr. McGee will explore his main SUMO (Shut Up, Move On) principles and how they impact our ability to inspire others. His principles relate to any leader whose organization would benefit from taking a fresh look at the following five key areas; Change, Relationships, Attitude, Motivation and Stress. Building on his background in behavioral and social psychology, he will give us time to reflect upon our behavior and that of others and identify what hinders our effectiveness.

Paul McGee is an international speaker, best-selling author and creator of the brand "SUMO: Shut Up, Move On." His goal is simple. He wants to help people achieve better results in life and have more fun in the process, as he seeks to deliver a memorable, motivational, moving-on experience. He has spoken in over 750 organizations in 35 countries. He has appeared on BBC Breakfast television and is a regular contributor to Radio 5live.
