LEADING AND SUCCEEDING AT THE NEXT LEVEL

Most rising leaders have a reputation as being the "go-to person" who gets the job done no matter what. To be successful at the next level, they need to make the shift from being the "go-to person" to the leader who builds teams of "go-to people." In this program Scott Eblin, author of The Next Level: What Insiders Know About Executive Success, will share the key behaviors and mindsets leaders need to develop, and let go of, as they move up in the organization. Discover how to lead and live at your best by balancing your focus on these key leadership imperatives:

- Manage yourself
- Leverage your team
- Engage your colleagues
