VIRTUAL SESSION (1-HOUR)

EMBRACING THE FUTURE OF WORK IN A RAPIDLY EVOLVING WORLD

In this insightful one-hour conversation, Dr. Jake Sotiriadis, a globally recognized expert in strategic foresight and innovation, will delve into the profound changes reshaping the future of work. As technological advancements, geopolitical shifts, and generational expectations collide, the modern workplace is undergoing rapid transformation. Jake will share foresight-driven strategies to help individuals and organizations navigate these shifts, anticipate future trends, and adapt to emerging challenges in the workforce of tomorrow.

Drawing on his 21-year career in U.S. Air Force intelligence and his role as a thought leader in both government and the private sector, Jake will explore how artificial intelligence, automation, and evolving leadership models are reshaping industries. Participants will gain actionable insights on how to future-proof their careers and organizations by fostering agility, developing skills for the future, and embracing new ways of working in an increasingly interconnected global environment.
